Grants

The Oregon Department of Education has awarded $20,000 to a collaborative that includes OCCC, LBCC, the Linn Benton Lincoln ESD, and the school districts in these counties, including LCSD. This is a planning grant provides financial support for partners to convene and develop a proposal for a Regional Promise implementation grant.

Regional Promise Grants are intended for the development, expansion, and/or continuation of consortia of educational service districts, school districts and post-secondary institutions building collaborative, innovative, and flexible ways to foster a college-going culture across the region and to create additional opportunities for high school students to participate and earn credit in college-level courses. Each consortium will plan to serve either at least 10,000 students or 50% or more of 5th -12th grade students in school districts participating in the grant.

Last Thursday's Donor & Scholar Reception was a tremendous success. There have been many positive comments from donors and scholars alike, praising the evening and their visit to our campus. Events like this don’t create themselves and we are deeply appreciative to everyone who helped make the evening special for all our guests. Donors came from as far as California to hear the inspirational stories of our student speakers, Cheyanne Bartolo, Brenda Ortiz Cruz, and Hiliarı Bodi. The evening was capped off by classical guitar pieces from Lauralee Norris, another of our fabulous scholarship recipients.

Special thanks to: Chris, Dell, and Dana for set-up and cleanup; Shaneon for beverage prep; Dave for video production; Laura for coaching our student speakers; Zane for encouraging scholar attendance; Linda and Cindy for beverage service; and Kathy, Linda, Dave and Dan for all their help with final details.

William’s Lecture Series featuring Robert Kentta’s presentation on Siletz Tribal History was well attended. While sometimes grim and frequently disquieting, Robert shared the history of the Siletz people in an open and personal way that was powerfully touching.

For those who were unable to experience the presentation in person, we have permission to share the following video:

Small Business Development Center & Community Education

SBDC
Stuart Brannen, CEO of the Siletz Tribal Business Corporation, will be offering a new leadership course in the Winter 2018 SBDC lineup. This noncredit course will be open to anyone in the county. Watch for this and more new courses in the weeks to come.

Small Business Management: Our busy 2017-18 Fall term rolls along. This week, the Lincoln City and Newport cohorts are discussing Unique Value Propositions in the first of a two-part marketing section. Coming off of two consecutive months of analysis of financial statements and reporting tools, the groups are noticeably relieved.

The SBDC will this week submit its third consecutive e-Digital Media & Marketing proposal, this one would site a robust audio, video and still photography studio in Newport at the OCCC Central Campus, and would offer enhanced video capabilities, including a DJI Phantom IV drone which, if approved, could be used not only for local business purposes but also for use by OCCC students and by OCCC Facilities and Safety personnel, in concert with and in support of partner agencies in disaster and site planning efforts in the South Beach area. The equipment would also enhance the College’s ability to chronicle (and promote) its nascent HAB-atmospheric research program.

Community Education
The Catch the Wave Winter 2018 edition is being prepped for publication this week. It will be distributed via mail approximately four weeks before the beginning of the Winter term.
This week, the College was asked to host free workshops broadcast live from Hawaii. One of these events, to begin at 9:30 p.m. local time (!) is an important update from the PanSTARRS observatory on Maui regarding the Kilonova – the collision of two neutron stars that made international news last month as gravitational waves, as well as light and radio waves across the spectrum, were observed simultaneously for the first time due to such an event. On Friday, at 8:30 p.m., the College will host a presentation from the same source, this one focusing on mapping and tracking all 20,000 earth-orbit satellites. Both events are free, and both are hosted by OCCC Community Ed instructor Sifan Kahale.

Community Relations and Marketing

College Marketing OCCC has begun a conversation with Al Lane, president of Coming Attractions Theatres, Majalise Tolan and Alison Robertson about the possibility of partnering with Taft HS and the cinemas with a monument sign that could advertise OCCC and its programs on Hwy. 101. It is very early in the process and discussions with city and ODOT code enforcement are among the areas not yet addressed.

Community Relations
Dave P. has joined an advisory committee with Meredith Howell (Yachats), Kristin Roslund (Yachats, owner of the Overleaf Lodge) and Melissa Steinman, Waldport HS CTE instructor. OCCC is facilitating a new lineup of hospitality training certificate programs to be taught at the WHS and at the South County Center in Waldport. Concurrently, some of the same offerings will be presented at the Lincoln City Culinary Center via a different but related agreement between the SBDC and the City of Lincoln City. That program is funded by SBDC State Network funds secured during the last legislative session by Rep. David Gomberg, while the Waldport program is funded by a cocktail of US DoE and Travel Oregon grants, secured last year by successful grant applications penned by M. Howell. OCCC will manage registrations and assist in promotions of these South and North county programs.
